Assistant City Attorney, City of Milwaukee

A 2012 Marquette Law School graduate, Hannah has worked as an Assistant City Attorney for the City of Milwaukee since April 2017. She is on the litigation team, focusing on defending property tax assessment appeals, typically for large commercial properties. Her team saves the City of Milwaukee about $10 million each year while ensuring that the City applies the law fairly and equitably. Her other work includes advising the City Assessor's Office on assessment and property tax exemption, advising the City Treasurer's Office on collection, infrequent appearances in bankruptcy court, and conducting in rem foreclosures. Prior to work with the City, she was an insurance subrogation attorney at Weiss Law Office. As a law student and recent graduate, she volunteered with the Milwaukee Justice Center and Marquette Volunteer Legal Clinic. She is interested in providing the perspective of a government lawyer and as one who frequently tries cases to the Milwaukee County Circuit Court.

Hannah is a member of the Milwaukee Bar Association, serving on the Civil Bench-Bar Committee and assisting with the local rules revision. She is also a member of the Association for Women Lawyers. With AWL, she has mentored law students through their annual networking event.

Hannah holds a BA from Ripon College and a JD from Marquette University Law School. She is a proud resident of Milwaukee. She enjoys spending time with her young daughter and enjoying the outdoors by biking and running. She is also a fan of Milwaukee's excellent theater and dance.
